7 Secrets of Color by Margaret Ann Lembo

The unknown secrets of color are right in front of you in the full spectrum of the rainbow in everything you do daily! Every day you choose clothes to wear, food to eat, and all types of choices that involve color.

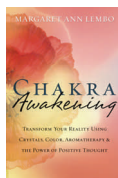

What would happen if you started to make all your choices with conscious intention using the 7 secrets of color? What would happen is that you will transform your life into one that is charmed, relaxed, flowing and full of grace and ease. It simply takes a little knowledge about the secrets of color along with focus and intention.

Intention is established easily by being mindful of what you want in your life. Many of us are clear on what we don't like or don't want and that's where we allow our intention to lie. Unfortunately, focusing attention on what we don't want gets us more of exactly that – what we do not want! Thoughts create reality. Therefore, as you make conscious choices to use fashion, foods, interior design and so on with intention, you create the life you really want.

Here is an example: Let's say you want to have the confidence to have a conversation with your good friend about something that's been agitating you. Start out your day eating a banana or a grapefruit while scripting your conversation. Choose a citrus-based perfume or lemon essential oil as your scent for the day and wear yellow or turquoise clothing or pieces of clothing as your fashion choices. When you pick out your jewelry, decide on your turquoise or aquamarine rings or earrings – depending on your outfit choices. Or, put an amazonite or citrine gemstone into your pocket. As you make each of these choices, keep your focus and intention on how well received your conversation will be and even imagine a positive outcome of the two of you laughing together when it's all said and done.

Why would this work? It works because each color is associated with the color, vibration and scent of the energy centers of the human body on a mental, physical, spiritual and emotional level. The energy centers are called chakras which is the Sanskrit word loosely translated to mean "spinning wheels of light."

The use of color is a powerful tool for bringing balance into our lives. We have the 7 colors of the rainbow and the many shades and variations in between to work with. Color is a vital part of our body, mind and spirit. According to eastern philosophies, we have chakras within our energy field which are spinning wheels of light. These energy centers are responsible for regulating the functions of many levels of our being. Each chakra has a color associated with it. There are seven main chakras. Over the next 7 newsletters, I'll delve further into how to work with color.
